WORD RECOGNITION GAMES

- Matching Word Game: Use cardstock to print two sets of word cards to use for a matching game (and to use for playing Go Fish below). It is suggested that you have available copies of the sentences students have memorized. When a child gets stuck on a word, encourage him to find it in the sentences and then to recite it word by word until he can identify it correctly.
- Go Fish! Deal five cards to each player and place the others in a stack.
  - Player 1: "Do you have the word ____?" (Example: If Player 1 has the word mother in her set, she might ask another player if he has that same word. Player 1 would show the word to the other player while identifying its spelling—"Do you have the word mother, m-o-t-h-e-r, mother?")
  - Player 2 has the card: Player 2 sets mother down and spells it out. (Player 1 keeps the pair and has another turn.)
  - Player 2 does not have the card: Player 2 says, "Go Fish!" (Player 1 draws a card, and it is player 2's turn.)
- KABOOM!: Several KABOOM cards are also provided with the word cards to use for this game. Students take turns drawing a word card from a lunch sack. If the child can identify the word, he/she holds onto the card. If not, the child puts the card back in the sack. If a KABOOM card is drawn, the child has to put back all cards except for those with a phonetic "secret" (see below). Do not put a KABOOM card back in the bag after it has been drawn. The student with the most cards at the end of the game is the winner.
- Gameboards with a pathway from start to finish: The word cards can also be used with various board games that have a pathway from start to finish. Students playing the game would read one of the sight words and then roll dice or spin a spinner and move his or her playing piece the corresponding number of spaces on the path. If you visit the "Free Teaching Materials" page of the Habakkuk Educational Materials website, there are free gameboards that can be printed on cardstock. (Click on "Board games and more to complement Habakkuk Educational Materials' Bible, reading, language, math, science, and social studies materials.")

- Phonetic “Secrets” (identifying the sound made by underlined letters in word cards): At the end of a word recognition game, let students look through their cards for any words with underlined letters. For example, the ch in teacher has been underlined, as has the sh in wish and the th in bath, just to name a few. If a student can name the letters and tell you the sound it makes (if he/she can repeat what was memorized from daily reviews of Phonics Book for Kids and Digital Flashcards for Teachers by Habakkuk Educational Materials), reward the child with a sticker to add to his/her incentive chart. When the pronunciation of a letter (or letters) is dependent upon certain conditions (e.g., i says its name in line because the word ends with e), encourage the student to explain to you what makes the i say its name in the word. Winners of games can earn an extra sticker.
- Play bingo.
- Around the World: Two students from the class stand together, and the teacher holds up a sight word card. The first child to identify the word would move to the next child in line for a second race, and the game would continue in this manner. If you are just using the word cards with the underlined phonetic “secrets,” students might instead race to identify the sound of the underlined letters.

If you are only using the four homograph (heteronym) word cards that have a star symbol on the bottom left-hand corner of the card (i.e., live, read, use, wind) and the five word cards that have more than one common pronunciation as identified with a smiley face on the bottom left corner of the card (i.e., a, an, our, the, their), students might race to give both pronunciations of a word.

Relay Game: Students line up in teams at the chalkboard for a relay game. The teacher would read a sight word card without showing it to the students, and the first team player to spell it on the board would have a tally mark recorded under his group’s name.
